

DEONTOLOGY

STRUCTURE

Study program	Veterinary Medicine
Year of study	VI
Semester	II
Type of discipline	Compulsory discipline
Total number of hours / week	Course – 1 hour; PW-1 hour
Total number of hours according to curriculum	Course - 11hourse; PW-11 hourse
ECTS	1

DISCIPLINE OBJECTIVES

Students' acquisition of veterinary medical ethics and knowledge of the main norms, regulations and directives in this regard, developed at national level and by international bodies (European Union, WHO, World Veterinary Association) in order to complete the knowledge necessary for practicing veterinary medicine and to achieve the necessary competence in the field of "veterinary economics".

DISCIPLINE CONTENT

COURSE	Nr. ore
Chapter1 -Introduction. The definition ofconcept.Ethics. Moralityandmoral norms. Coexistence andcohabitationrules. Deontology.	1h
Chapter2 - Deontology of veterinary medicine.Medical debt: to himself, thesick,theconfresand to thesocietyestablished. Medical secrecy. Rightsphysician.Legal elements ofdeontology.	2
Chapter 3 –Aspects ofveterinarydeontologybeginnings	2h
Chapter 4 -Orderof veterinarians and professional ethics code of veterinary in EU countries(Belgium, France)	2
Chapter 5 –Code ofethicsof the World AssociationofVeterinarians	2h
Chapter 6 -International organizationsthat havecomponentsinthe field ofveterinary medicaethics and deontology: WorldVeterinaryAssociation, the European Union, the World Organizationfor Animal Health, the World Health Organization, FAO, CodexAlimentarius.	2h

PRACTICAL WORK PW	Nr. ore
Chapter 1.Law no.160 of30.07/ 1998for the organization andpractice ofveterinarian General principles	1h
Chapter 2 – Organization of veterinary profession  - National CongressofVeterinarians  -Members ofthe Collegeof Veterinarians  -Qualification, specialization and promotingprofessional degreesveterinarians  -Freemedicaland veterinarypractice  -SanctionsCommitteesEthicsandLitigation	3h
Chapter 3 -Veterinary medicaethicscode General principles	1h
Chapter 4 –Professional duties ofveterinarians	3h

-The rights and responsibilities to colleagues and collaborators -Rights and duties to pet owners -Veterinarians' duties towards the society established
Chapter 5 - The status of a veterinarian General principles. Definitions	0,5h
Chapter 6 – Organization of the veterinary profession  -Activity free practice -The attributions and competencies of veterinarians in free practice -Rights and obligations of the veterinarians other than those in free practice	1,5h
Chapter 7 – Recognition of veterinary qualifications and regulation of issues related to practicing a veterinarian	0,5h
Chapter 8 – Qualification, specialization and professional advancement	0,5h

BIBLIOGRAPHY

1. Gonciarov Magda (2011) - Laws veterinary and food safety, Ed Printech
2. Gonciarov Magda (2008) - Elements, concepts and veterinary norms. Ed Printech.
3. Gonciarov Magda (2020) - Legislation in veterinary medicine . International organism issuing regulations in veterinary health and food safety. Ed Printech.

EVALUATION

Type of activity	Evaluation criteria	Method of evaluation	Percentage of final grade %
Course	Assimilation of the theoretic notions. Participation course	Grid examination	70%
PW	Assimilation of the practical notions. Active participation in discussions after the lecture and after covering laboratory material.	Interactive practical exam, and the final grade is Pass/Fail.	30%
Other activities	The final evaluation is conditioned by the attestation of the acquisition of the competencies by completing and signing the student's logbook by the student and by the teaching staff.

Course teaching staff: Lecturer Dr. Magdalena Gonciarov

Practical work teaching staff PW: Lecturer Dr. Magdalena Gonciarov